Skeptical Youth.

It was a skeptical youngster, who, be asked what it was that troubled the pool of Bethesda, answered, gravely: "Well, teacher, they say it was angels, but I think it most probably was frogs."

Anomalies.

The best description of the Rhine was written by a man who had never seen it. And the fellow who burlesques hay fever never had it.

Lubricating Notes.

Sometimes the word corker is a misnomer; the word "uncorker" would be more appropriate.

HELLO GIRL AND HEIRESS IN FIGHT

COULDN'T GET HER PARTY; MIL- LIONAIRE'S DAUGHTER GOES AFTER "CENTRAL."

ANGERED BY "LINE'S BUSY"

Young Woman at the Switchboard Resented the Calling Down, They Mixed, and the Two Rolled Down Stairs into the Street.

Fayette City, Pa.—Incensed over the continual repetition of the phrase "Line's busy," while she and her guests were delayed at bridge whist because of an absent friend, Miss Hazel Gillen, daughter of John Gillen, the millionaire horseman and ice manufacturer of Fayette City, the other night left her home and her guests to investigate the local Bell telephone exchange and learn the reason she could not get phone connections with a young woman she wanted to "fill in."

Trouble was found and plenty of it, as was demonstrated when Miss Gillen reached the head of the first flight of stairs at the exchange. A whirlwind in the form of the much-abused "Central," Miss Lillian Usher, enveloped her, and a second later both young women were rolling down the stairs and onto the sidewalk, in each other's arms, while the air was filled with a choice collection of worse than slang phrases.

The young women took a death grip at each other on the sidewalk, when they stopped rolling, and to the amusement of a crowd of men and boys proceeded to pull hair and attempt to choke each other for several minutes, until one man stepped forward and separated them.

Hair rats, side combs and one switch, which neither of the young women will acknowledge to own, were picked up on the sidewalk. In the meantime the father of the young social leader was entertaining the guests at the Gillen home, but within a few minutes the bridge party was broken up when the hostess, with her hair hanging down her back, a deep scratch on one cheek, a black and blue eye and her faultless evening costume in tatters, was assisted on to the porch and into the hall, where a maid and her father took charge of her and carried her to her room.

Influence was used against the telephone operator and Miss Usher was asked to resign. She escaped with only a few bruises and one slight scratch.

MAN WITH A BUG IN HIS EAR

Light and Heat From Burning Matches Finally Induce the Insect to Back Up.

Colwyn, Pa.—The light and heat from burning matches held close to John Sanders' ear induced an insect that was driving Sanders almost insane with pain to back out of his ear. Sanders was not aware that the bug had crawled into his ear until it reached the inner membranes, when he began to suffer excruciatingly. The insect tried to go further, and the pain became more intense, when a fellow-worker lighted a match to make a better examination, and the pain suddenly ceased. The moment the light ceased, however, the pain began; but as soon as another match was lighted and held close to Sanders' ear the pain stopped.

After a box of matches had been used the insect, which responded to the light, had almost entirely emerged, and was removed and killed.

Spanked Wife by Precedent.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Pleading guilty in the Camden police court to a charge of assault and battery in spanking his wife, Frank Gatz, 27 years old, said:

"I didn't think I was violating the law, because I often saw my father spank my mother, and he wasn't arrested."

He did the spanking, he said, in a fit of anger because his wife failed to have his supper ready when he returned from work. Mrs. Gatz withdrew the charge when he promised never to spank her again, and they left the City Hall together.
